

Course Description	This course will focus on sex and gender issues as they arise in the practice of medicine. Topics to be covered include views of gender and the body, gender identity and the profession of medicine, women physicians, public health reformers, the role of culture and government in health, the role of mentoring and leadership, and examining work/life balance.
Course Objectives	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Analyze the role of feminist movements in medicine and health care• Describe and discuss the history of female physicians• Analyze the current challenges faced by female physicians• Discuss techniques for managing the challenges faced by women in medicine
Course Activities	Students in this course will complete all work online. Active participation in discussion board posts is a requirement. In addition to engagement in online discussions, students will be required to submit a one-page response based on each of the assigned readings (four in total) and reply weekly to one of their peer's response post (four in total). Additionally, students are required to submit a final project due one week before the conclusion of the course. Students will receive written feedback at the completion of the course.
Course Schedule Requirements	No on-call requirement. Student work is completed online.

Duration	4 weeks	Location	Online
-----------------	---------	-----------------	--------

Designation	Elective, Non-Clinical, Online	Revised	09.30.2019
--------------------	--------------------------------	----------------	------------

